Changes made by the Department of State in Foreign Service Reporting Instruction on Economic Relations With the Sino-Soviet Bloc, as Revised by EDIC Working Group on Collection Requirements (December 5, 1955)

(The numbers listed below refer to the sections of subchapter 220, FSM 3, Part II, Economic Reporting - Economic Relations with the Soviet Bloc). Page numbers refer to EDIC revision of December 5, 1955.

Section 223, page 2, first line:

Insert after "defense" the words "ICA/MDAC".

Section 223.22, page 4, fourth line from bottom of page:

Insert parenthesis after the word "systems".

Section 223.23, page 7, last sentence:

Remove parenthesis surrounding words "as appropriate" and make sentence end with the latter word. The reference to "other economic defense programs" is not believed necessary in view of the comprehensive coverage given in the text to the various aspects of East-West trade and financial controls.

Section 224, page 8, first line:

Substitute "certain" for "A substantial body of". The documents in question are concerned in general with specific problems of trade control and usually do not treat overall economic relationships with the Bloc.

Section 224, page 8, line 6:

Substitute for the words "should scrutinize" the word "receiving" and insert after the word "delegation" in line 7, the words "should scrutinize them."

Section 226, page 9, line 6:

Insert after the words "Section B, C and D" the word "respectively".

Substitute for the word "country's" the word "post's".

Substitute "free world" for "western" (three places).

Substitute "the free world" for "west" (two places) and "free world" for "western". These changes are proposed because the term "free world" embracing all non-communist countries is more comprehensive than the term "west" or "western".
